Ready, set, shop!

Shopping is one of Singapore's national pastimes, and you couldn't have picked a better time to be here in this amazing city if you're looking to nab some great deals. Score the latest Spring/Summer goods at the annual Fashion Steps Out festival; discover emerging local and regional designers at trade fair Blueprint; or shop up a storm when The Great Singapore Sale (3 June to 14 August) rolls around.

At some point, you'll want to leave the shops and malls for authentic local experiences in Singapore. Well, that's where we come in – we've curated the best and latest of the city in this nifty booklet to make sure you'll never want to leave town.

Whether you have a week to deep dive or a weekend to scratch the surface, you'll discover Singapore's secrets at every turn. There are rich cultural experiences, stylish bars, innovative restaurants, authentic local hawkers, incredible landscapes and so much more.

Inside, you'll find a heap of handy guides – from neighbourhood trails to the best eats, drinks and events in Singapore – to help you make the best of your visit to this sunny island. And these aren't just our top picks: we've asked some of the city's tastemakers and experts to share their favourite haunts (and then some), so you'll never have a dull moment exploring this beautiful city we call home.

There's no rest for the wicked,

Chris

Language

English is the spoken language, though Singlish – a collection of colloquial catch phrases and lingo – dominates everyday conversations among locals (see page 15). Mandarin, Malay, Tamil and various dialects are also used.

Tipping

It is not usual practice to tip in Singapore, although it is appreciated by service staff. Most hotels and restaurants quote prices as “++,” which includes 10 per cent service charge and 7 per cent goods and services tax (GST).

Shopping

For a pleasant shopping experience, compare prices, enquire about refund policies, and check

HSBC World Rugby Singapore Sevens

Rugby devotees, rejoice! As well as hosting the high-profile Singapore Grand Prix and WTA Finals, Singapore is all set for the return of the HSBC World Rugby Singapore Sevens from 16 to 17 April 2016 after a decade-long hiatus. Never experienced a Sevens tournament? Well, get ready to rock, ruck and rumble as the world's top players crash and tackle their way to the try line at the National Stadium.

Singapore is the eighth leg of the HSBC World Rugby Sevens Series, joining Dubai, Cape Town, Wellington, Sydney, Las Vegas, Vancouver, Hong Kong, Paris, and London as host cities. In each leg, 15 core teams and one wild-card team will compete in as many as 45 gripping matches. The stakes are even higher this year: players are also battling for a spot in the 2016 Rio Olympics for the first time. Expect a boisterous weekend of non-stop rugby action as you watch current champions Fiji defend its title against crowd-favourites such as Australia, England, 12-time Seven Series champion New Zealand and wild-card Japan.

There's more to be had in and around the stadium apart from the exciting games. Flaunt your fanciest costumes at the bustling carnival, and enjoy excellent food and drink options, live music performances, and other fun-filled activities with your friends and family. Don't miss the slew of family-friendly events at Sentosa during the Singapore Sevens, too!

Come nightfall, head to the Clarke Quay After 7s Music Festival, where local music talents and regional bands get your heart pumping with high-energy performances. Ticket holders also enjoy exclusive offers at some of Clarke Quay's popular outlets.

Standard tickets start from $50 for free seating and are available at www.sportshubtix.sg, Singapore Indoor Stadium Box Office, all SingPost outlets, as well as via the ticketing hotline at (65) 3158 7888.

Fashion Steps Out

Image credit: Orchard Road Business Association

You know Spring/Summer has arrived when Orchard Road, Singapore's famous shopping belt, buzzes with exciting events, shopping promotions and designer showcases as part of Fashion Steps Out (FSO). Save the dates: the annual six-week-long fashion extravaganza is happening from 25 March and 8 May this year.

Keen to see more beyond what's in the stores? Check out The Style Challenge exhibition by local design schools that showcases fashion-forward creations based on the festival's themes.

Think knitting is for grandmothers? A large-scale knitting project conceptualised by crafter Adeline Loo of It Takes Balls will change your mind, and anyone can join at participating malls to weave a knit. Find out how you can catch her in action and other fringe activities happening along Orchard Road with the OneOrchard mobile app!

Of course, no fashion festival is ever complete without great deals within the malls and shops on Orchard Road. MasterCard holders (locals and tourists both), receive $30 worth of shopping vouchers when you spend $300 on your card. Plus, tourists stand a chance to win the grand prize, a 'Priceless Experience in Orchard Road', at the end of the event in May. Happy shopping!

A traditional Nyonya dressing table

Nyonya rice dumplings

The story of Kim Choo Kueh Chang...

began with my grandmother, Lee Kim Choo, who first sold Nyonya (Straits-Chinese Peranakan woman) rice dumplings under a banyan tree along Joo Chiat Place. My father, the eldest in his family, later took over the helm of the business together with my mother. My brothers and I are now continuing the family's legacy.

Kim Choo Kueh Chang today...

isn't just a place for rice dumplings and Peranakan snacks. We do customisations of sarong kebaya and batik (traditional Peranakan costumes), wholesaling of Peranakan porcelain, and hold guided tours, talks, and workshops to promote our Nanyang-Peranakan heritage.

Contrary to popular belief...

Peranakans are not linked to a particular race, nor are they people who inherited the bloodline. The word "Peranakan" literally means "locally born descendants of foreigners". It is very much about the marriage of different cultures, and not about the marriage of two different races.

Did you know...

that pineapple tarts are also eaten and shared during Hari Raya, Diwali, Easter, and Christmas – not just during Chinese New Year?

These sweet, bite-sized pastries are a distinctive Peranakan snack.

I have lived...

in Katong and Joo Chiat my whole life. I have fond memories of my childhood, where I would play in mud, climb trees, and shoot marbles with my neighbours in the kampung (village).

I love that...

the Katong-Joo Chiat neighbourhood has a harmonious charm. Here, different religious buildings are located in close proximity. You'll also find narrow roads with no names. It's also where you can find Mempat trees, a Southeast-Asian plant that bears small pink flowers that resemble cherry blossoms sometime in February and August.

Singapore has plenty of...

cultural hidden gems. Bukit Brown tells much of our untold story; and Jalan Bahar is home to the last two dragon kilns in Singapore. These places in our Little Red Dot give us a glimpse into our past, and how different cultures come together in a rapid and harmonious manner for prosperity.

Unbelievable Tours

LOOKING TO EXPERIENCE A DAY TRIP WITH A DIFFERENCE? THESE BRILLIANT TOURS AROUND THE GEYLANG PRECINCT SHOW YOU THE ALTERNATIVE SIDES OF SINGAPORE.

Historic architecture, cultural diversity, and cult-status eateries are accolades not commonly associated with Singapore's Geylang district – which is frequently written off as the island's infamous nightlife zone. But take a stroll through the meandering lanes and bustling back alleys of this unique enclave, and you'll find a buzzing hub filled with colourful shophouses, mosques, temples, bars and more that put Geylang firmly on the must-visit tourist trail.

With a rich history steeped in multicultural migration, the Geylang of today is a melting pot of ethnicities and religions. And unlike the rest of the island, it remains largely untouched by urban redevelopment; if you're looking for a slice of old school authentic Singapore charm, you'll likely find it here. And we say it's high time to delve into this unique neighbourhood through a series of brilliant immersive local tours. During the four-hour Betel Box Sins and Salvation: a Geylang Food Walk, a loquacious guide will not only shed light on the area's diverse history, new migrant communities, religions and after-hours activities, but will also encourage you to eat your way around the district. Highlighting the juxtaposition that defines Geylang, you'll find yourself passing massage parlours one second, and beautiful temples the next.

Meanwhile, the Betel Box Kampung Geylang Serai Uncovered tour takes you straight to the heart of one of Singapore's oldest Malay enclaves. Discover the past and present of the neighbourhood as you make your way from Geylang Serai Market & Food Centre to Joo Chiat Road. Sample traditional street food while experiencing the culture, trades and crafts of Singapore's Malay community. Look out for the bird-singing corner, where elders with prized birds in cages compete to see which feathered friend is the most tuneful. Talk about going off the beaten path!

Also famed for its durian shops, a trip to Geylang wouldn't be complete without a taste of the pungent king of fruit itself - an experience that Karni Tomer of Wlok 'n' Stroll claims to be the "ultimate foodie courage test". Try it for yourself during her Beguiling Geylang food tour through authentic hawker centres and illuminated night markets. This three-hour night crawl will expose you to other local delicacies including dim sum, turtle soup, black herbal tea, and more. Brace yourself, and your tastebuds!

Beguiling Geylang

Hectic by day and night, it's also a must visit for those keen to explore a totally unique side to the city. Uncover the neighbourhood's interesting past, and multi-faceted present with the Secrets of the Red Lantern™: A Chinatown & Geylang Night Tour; first you'll take in the buzz of Chinatown – famed for its back alley opium and gambling dens in the 19th century – before a jaunt around Geylang. It's an eye-opening experience brimming with tales of vice and tragedy; not for the faint of heart, nor the kids!

City must-dos

THIS SUN-DRENCHED ISLAND IS MANY THINGS: A VIBRANT MULTI-CULTURAL STATE, A LUSH GARDEN CITY, A RENOWNED BUSINESS HUB, A FOODIE'S PARADISE, A WORLD-CLASS SHOPPING DESTINATION, AND A NATION WITH HISTORY AND DEPTH. TO WIT, SINGAPORE IS DELIGHTFULLY COMPLEX, AND IF YOU DON'T KNOW WHERE TO START, THIS MAP OF THE CITY'S FINEST SHOULD POINT YOU IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION(S).

One dish, three ways

THINK YOU'VE TRIED IT ALL WHEN IT COMES TO LAKSA? WE FOUND SOME APPETISING VARIATIONS THAT JUST MIGHT SURPRISE YOU – AND YOUR TASTEBUDS.

Many locals would stand by the traditional Singapore laksa: a harmonious blend of rice noodles, coconut milk-infused broth, tau pok, prawns, fishcakes, cockles, and eggs – best perfected by 328 Katong Laksa (53 East Coast Road), which won a cook-off against celebrity chef Gordon Ramsay in 2013. But you can also dig into diverse interpretations of the iconic noodle dish at Laksania (#04-04 Bugis+, 201 Victoria Street). Try its Penang laksa if you prefer tangy assam (sour, tamarind-based soup) flavours (no coconut milk in this one!), or the not-so-spicy Kelantan laksa served with mackerel and a yellow ginger soup base.

NATIONAL KITCHEN BY VIOLET OON DRY LAKSA

It is unorthodox to serve laksa without its signature broth, but we have no qualms whatsoever when it's in the good hands of celebrated Peranakan chef, Violet Oon. Fresh rice noodles are instead tossed in Oon's flavoursome laksa gravy, ensuring they stay firm and springy. Expect brilliance in every bite.

Woo Wai Leong

ASIA'S FIRST MASTERCHEF AND BARTENDER AT SLICK LOCAL SPEAKEASY, THE HORSE'S MOUTH, TELLS US WHAT THE FUTURE HOLDS SINCE WINNING THIS INAUGURAL COMPETITION, WHY HE LOVES HAWKER FOOD, AND WHERE HIS FAVOURITE SPOTS ARE TO SAMPLE A COCKTAIL OR TWO.

Since winning MasterChef Asia...

I've continued to bartend at The Horse's Mouth (#B1-39 Forum The Shopping Mall), where our cocktails are inspired by the classics. I'm also working on a cookbook, planning a few pop-ups and there's also talk of some exciting collaborations in the near future.

L'Aiglon and Anti:dote...

are two of my favourite cocktail bars in Singapore, aside from The Horse's Mouth – of course! I enjoy making – and drinking – a dry Martinez or a Last Word. Try either or both the next time you visit a cocktail bar!

I love the intense flavours of hawker food...

and how it has influenced the Singapore restaurant scene to profile the flavours in their menus.

My top three local dishes...

are a good bowl of bak chor mee (minced pork noodles) from Tai Hwa (#01-12, 466 Crawford Lane) in Lavender or the controlled smokiness of the Hokkien mee (stir-fried prawn noodles, 396 East Coast Road) cooked over charcoal at Geylang Lor 29. But, for comfort food, nothing beats the chicken rice that I get from one of my favourite hawkers such as Wee Nam Kee, Loy Kee, or Tian Tian.

Enjoying a cup of kopi (coffee with condensed milk)...

brings back so many memories of growing up. I just love the overly-roasted bitterness of this local brew.

There's so much to do in Singapore...

I love running through the Singapore Botanic Gardens or the Central Business District, visiting numerous art exhibitions, and checking out the local music scene.

AURA

Furnished with Uragano wicker chairs and lighting sculptures by local artist Mona Choo, this elegant Italian establishment will win your affection with its culinary masterpieces. Look out for the scallops crudo with truffle and smoked quail eggs, or tagliolini with scampi and avruga caviar. Another trump card in Aura's hand is the Aura Sky Lounge, one level up. Take in a top-notch view of The Padang and the city's skyline while tucking into saccharine treats like Amedei chocolate and banana cake, or Bailey's and hazelnut feuillantine.

AH SAM COLD DRINK STALL

True to its hawker-inspired name, this, no-pretense cocktail bar on the second floor of a Boat Quay shophouse offers a menu of interesting tipples that reference from local food and drinks (see page 15), such as Tak Qiu (local lingo for Milo drink; cocktail consists of Milo bourbon with sugar and bitters) and laksa (noodles in coconut milk-based curry broth; drink made with dried shrimp infused vodka, laksa leaves, lemongrass, chilli padi, sugar, lime and coconut cream). But if there's nothing that tickles your fancy, owner-bartender Sam Wong and his talented mixology team will concoct anything you want, and you can expect infusions of local flavours like gula melaka (palm sugar), pandan, and chrysanthemum.

Eugenia Yip

THE COOL, CULTURALLY RICH BUGIS-BRAS BASAH DISTRICT HAS A VERY SPECIAL PLACE IN LOCAL MUSICIAN EUGENIA YIP'S HEART. SHE TELLS US WHY.

Having attended school (Lasalle College of the Arts) and lived out her music dreams in the neighbourhood, lead vocalist of local band The Steve McQueens Eugenia Yip knows the Bugis-Bras Basah precinct like the back of her hand. Here, she shows us around her favourite enclave, and then some.

I love how...

the Bugis-Bras Basah (BBB) neighbourhood is so chill, even though there are many things going on in the neighbourhood. There's just a quaint vibe about the district.

Before BBB became a cultural hub...

it had a notorious reputation. After a major clean-up, it's now home to cool venues like the National Museum of Singapore, Peranakan Museum, and The Substation, which hosts a good number of indie gigs and art installations.

Not many know this, but...

BBB is a bona fide enclave for local delicacies; not just art. My bandmates and I are fans of the roast duck and wanton mee (noodles with dumplings and barbecued pork) at Choo Chiang Roasted Meat Noodle House on Bencoolen Street.

Speaking of local food...

we also love the Mongkok beef hor fun (thick and flat rice noodles with starchy gravy) from Mongkok Kitchen. For great prata and thosai, head to Lakshmi Vilas Restaurant on Wishart Road.

The best way to explore BBB is...

by foot. Arm yourself with a mini portable fan and a huge bottle of water, and then walk! Must-visits include the National Library, Bras Basah Complex, Haji Lane, (all day, through night!) Bussorah Street (there's a very beautiful mosque in that area called Masjid Sultan), and of course, Blujaz on Bali Lane.

Singapore's live music scene is...

bursting at its seams! Singjazz Club, Blujaz, Lepark, and The Esplanade are some of the many places in Singapore that host a plethora of local and international acts all year round. Watch out for local musicians like Cashew Chemists, TAJ, The Good Life Project, Charlim Lim, and DotGif at these spots.

The Steve McQueens...

performs at Blujaz once every couple of months. The restaurant-bar has a great vibe going. It's one of the few live jazz music venues in Singapore, and they've got different acts playing all the time. The food is great and reasonably priced, plus the music is awesome.
